

The Citizen.

HERE AND THERE.

Bloomfield will write down 1889 as the year of its evolution, for so many are going away that we are moved to send ourselves on the cartoon, take out our note-book and write a poem on the "Deserted Village," which will quite eclipse all other poems in that direction.

Dr. and Mrs. John E. Wilson leave on Friday for a pleasant trip to extend over a few weeks, and will visit Montreal, Saginaw and the St. Lawrence. They will be a little better than reading "The Acquaintance" at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright C. Stout also have been in the city after the Fourth of July, and are now with them at the Kaat.

Miss Ellen Causey of Milford, Del., has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hart, and is now with them at the Kaat.

Mr. Geo. A. Pault expects to sail for Europe on the 20th.

During Dr. Wilson's absence his professional places will be filled by Dr. W. H. Hart from New York.

Mr. Charles Bailey and Miss Bessie Bailey leave Friday for Point Pleasant, where so many Bloomfielders turn their eyes in summer.

Mr. E. W. Sutton and family are likewise on their way to Point Pleasant, and will be visiting relatives in Hartford, Conn.

Miss Josie Cook and Miss Helen Bliss are visiting relatives in Hartford, Conn.

Judge and Mrs. J. M. Dodd have returned from their western trip.

Allen Ridge ahead again. The other day a peddle of refinement and uprightness—all of us—and set forth the virtues of his wares. Like Mary Jane in the ballad, we "had no time to buy," and like the "friend" in one of the Century's prose poems, we said "Nay, there is no change." But neither poetry nor peddle availed. We were met with indifference, and the price was lowered.

Wags who still displayed reluctance, the peddle peddle of polish gazed at us with contempt and recited in our ears the superior virtues of the Ridgites. They had bought polish. All of them. Mr. said he, "twenty-eight boxes," etc., etc. The figures appalled us. "Then," laughed, as if he measured our enlightened condition, "I've only sold one box here."

It was said, it was pitiful. We were told that Mr. Ridge was taking a step in advance. As for Bloomfield, we said, "what need have we of polish?"

And the peddle peddle departed and was no more. He's probably gone up to Glen Ridge.

The Fourth is over once more. We have spent our money and burned our fingers in honor of this great and glorious holiday, and we are tired of it—yes, actually and unapologetically and unforgettably of "Euphorbia Unum" and George Washington and the eagle. We had but recovered from the wild enthusiasm for the stars and stripes awakened by the Centennial when we were once more expected to burn gunpowder in honor of the star of patriotism. It is too much. Once a year we are willing to fall into the line frenzy over the Star Spangled Banner. Twice in a year, and we are compelled to renounce it.

The Glen Ridge Club doesn't feel that way. It made great preparations for the evening, in the shape of fireworks. That's always the way. That club is exactly like Patti—always "making its last appearance for the season," and then coming out once more with great glory. But then no one minds. Patti is Patti, and the club is the club. Pardon us, the club.

We've been wandering around Glen Ridge long enough. Doesn't some one want to hear something about Bloomfield? We had a graduation down here the other night, even if it was hot.

Tenacity coined that expression, "sweet girl graduates," although we're all used to hearing it that one might be pardoned (almost) for expecting to find it in the Bible.

The graduating class this year was confined to the girls, and a very pretty picture they made as they stood, in their white gowns, against the background of green, from which some out their motto: "Beaut qui non carent out."

Speaking of that motto, the Humble Individual happened to sit in front of the other boys, one of whom said to the other: "De-s-u-n't! Ain't that a queer dog to spelt decent?"

The Old Church was the scene of action. It was prettily decorated and filled with friends and relatives of the High School pupils.

The first essay, by Miss Madison was a plea for manual training, and showed an earnest interest in the subject. Miss White, Miss Russell and Miss Johnson unfortunately did not read. Miss George's essay on Shirkling found an echo in the hearts of the teachers, to whom it was evident that this young lady, at least, had grasped what she preached, and not merely provoked some quiet mirth, as Miss Brown proceeded to show us a little of the "other side" of the character of Alexander Wilson, the celebrated orthopedist, whose residence in Bloomfield, we now believe, wasn't altogether a case for rejoicing on either side. Many of Miss Brown's remarks were bright and cutting, and calculated to make the students of the departed "Bloomfield Teacher" walk invisibly.

Mr. Aleck Irving then sang "The Church Gate." At the Church Gate, and it was followed by Miss Olcott, whose essay on "National Lessons" made an old lady bent to the Humble Individual say gently "Oh, those young things, these young things! what high ideals 'ye have."

Miss Suydam pleaded eloquently for the maintenance and increase of classical studies, and after Mr. Carl's organ solo we realized that the evening was half over.

Miss Ward's subject proved to be an old name for "Honor," and it was proved that in her essay to speak in the school, and to convince us "that it is no excuse for being," Miss Kimball's essay was "Blithe Robin Hood."

Most unexpected but acceptable department of the heroes we hear of usually, and who in our opinion, are persecuted lot. The valiant was of Dobson's opinion that "There is place and enough for the pains of prose," and the farewell words were in smooth and graceful verse.

The second song was Adeline Frodrot's "Lost Chord," followed by a few words to the graduates from the Rev. C. A. Cook, and the presentation of the well-earned diplomas.

Mr. Bancroft, in behalf of William S. Pearson Post, G. A. R., presented a large flag to the school as "an object-lesson in patriotism," to which Trustee Smith responded, and the organ burst out in the most irrepressible way with "The Star Spangled Banner," of which little tribute the new flag looked very conspicuous. And then it was all over, and the class of '89 was graduated. And there was nothing more for the greater part of the audience to do but to go home and think it over. But the graduates enjoyed the rest of the evening at a reception given at the home of Miss Suydam.

The Public Schools.

The Board of School Trustees met on Monday evening, July 2, at 7 P. M., and Joseph Olcott presented their respective specifications of plans for the new Berkeley school building. The reading of a portion of the specifications was listened to and discussed. Further hearing of them was deferred until next Monday evening. The clerk was instructed to call a special meeting at the Central school building on Tuesday evening, July 10th, for the purpose of determining the amount to be expended for the purpose of the new building. The trustees recommended that $9,500 be raised for current expenses and $3,000 towards payment of mortgage indebtedness. $800 additional will be asked to purchase land adjoining the Berkeley school lot.

The teachers for the school year beginning September next have been appointed as follows:

John B. Dwyer, Principal and Instructor in High School. Miss Ella Draper, Assistant. Miss Lotta Grant, Assistant and Instructor in Music. Miss M. Roberts M. Allen, Instructor in Drawing. Grammar Department—Misses E. B. Whipple, Samantha Wheeler, Edith E. Hulin, R. Anna Baird, Mary J. Sloan, Ella V. Holmes, Flora Van Campen, Kate F. Hubbard. Centre Primary—Misses Mary M. Draper, Lizzie Price, Ella Simpson, Ella Hall, Jennie Ruddy and Mrs. Mary L. Ellwood. Berkeley Primary—Misses Eva Tomlinson, Bessie F. Sutphen, Anna Calhoun and Arvilla Martin. Brookside Primary—Misses Jennie Baird and Emogene Martin.

Township Committee.

The ditch which conveys the water from the Glenwood avenue culvert is a perpetual source of annoyance to the town officials. Complaints about it are constantly being made. That it has become a nuisance of a dangerous character was made evident by the statements of Mr. John G. Keyler and Mr. J. W. Breton before the Town Committee on Monday night. Mr. Keyler said that since Mr. J. B. Harvey had filled up his lot along the east line of which the ditch runs, the original course for the water had been choked up and now ran over on to his property. His stable and was rendered impassable, and the health of the tenants in his house was threatened. He had raised his buildings twice before to escape the dangerous effects of the water. He could bring physicians to testify to the unhealthy condition of the place. Mr. Breton corroborated Mr. Keyler's statements and further stated that the outflows were overflowed in that locality, thus adding to the nuisance.

Mr. Benson said that he had been over the ground and found it even worse than Mr. Keyler had represented. Mr. Dodd also pronounced it a nuisance of the worst kind. It was decided to have the Board of Health take immediate action in the matter. Owing to the absence of Town Physician Dr. Chas. H. Bailey, and Town Counsel Richards, a meeting of the board could not be called. It was then resolved to have the Road Committee do what they could to abate the nuisance pending action of the Health Board. Accordingly that Committee was authorized to dig out the old course of the ditch on Mr. Harvey's property.

Mr. Shielich, representing the Eastern Electric Light Company addressed the Committee on the subject of electric lights. He desired permission for his company to erect a few lights on one of the principal streets, in order to give the people and the town officials an idea of their efficiency. He said that the practical operation of the system on a small scale would prove valuable to the Committee during their present consideration of the subject. His company would assume all the expense of the experiment. Mr. Shielich stated that he perceived a difficulty in effectively lighting the town, owing to the numerous shade trees along the streets. His company objected that by the attachment of an arm to the poles which suspended the line and the middle of the street. The Committee informed that the arrangements were now in progress with the Montclair township officials looking to a combination of interests in this matter. The Committee was not disposed to grant any privileges until they heard definitely from the Montclair Committee.

Town Clerk Farrand notified the N. Y. and Greenwood Lake Railway Company of the Committee's action with regard to the Bellevue Avenue bridge. A reply from the company's counsel, R. Wayne Parker, was read, expressing regret for the failure of the Committee to accept the bridge plans as submitted. The letter also intimated that the company were not in need of any suggestions from the Committee as to how to build their road. They could not adapt the grade of their road to every street crossing. The clerk was instructed to make a careful copy of the letter on the minutes, and to inform Mr. Parker of its receipt. It has been rumored that the Railway company may attempt the construction of the bridge regardless of the Committee.

The Sidewalk Committee was empowered to continue the flagstone sidewalk along the east side of the Park, from the Liberty street crossing Franklin street, fronting the German Seminary.

A communication from Phoenix Hose Co. No. 1 called attention to several changes in their by-laws relating to the election and privileges of honorary members. The changes were approved by the Committee.

The resignations of George W. Sabn and Henry J. Sayers from Phoenix Hose Co. were accepted and their names dropped from the membership roll.

Complaint having been made by residents of Glen Ridge about the late hour when the gas lamps were lighted, Mr. Benson stated that the superintendent of the company intended putting on an additional lighter in that locality.

The Old Church Music Again.

The CITIZEN recently complimented and congratulated the Old Church on the excellent music now enjoyed there, and very justly.

Some late experiences are showing, in an unexpected way, the wisdom of that action of the Parish Meeting which made this liberal provision. The regular choir of the church is so excellent that good singers from out of town find it a pleasure to come and assist in the services.

For two Sundays recently, the place of Mrs. Morris, who was absent, was taken by Mrs. Olcott, of East Orange, a member of the Orange Mendelssohn Union; and last Sunday evening the congregation were surprised and delighted to recognize in the choir gallery the face of Mr. Aleck Irving, of New York, whose singing was such a happy feature of our last High School Commencement.

Both these excellent singers asked no remuneration beyond the pleasure of being associated with such a choir as they have found.

Besides the usual music last Sunday evening, a selection, "Jesus, Lover of my Soul," was beautifully and effectively sung without organ accompaniment by a quartet of male voices: Mr. Barnes and Mr. Mix, tenors, and Mr. Irving and Mr. Percy Hall, baritone and bass. A quartet of such quality is not often heard in Bloomfield, and that it has become possible is a matter for general congratulation.

A GRATEFUL HEARER.

BRIEF NOTES.

West Orange has adopted electric lights.

An interesting account of the recent Editorial Excursions is printed elsewhere.

Willie Neville, age 12, was severely burned with powder July 4th.

Dickerson Battery holds its annual picnic on July 15th.

Kearney Council will go off on an excursion July 24th.

Elm trees on Franklin street are suffering from the ravages of the elm beetle.

The Fairview celebration was declared off on July 4th, on account of the weather.

A petition for a special election for the incorporation of this township has been put in circulation.

The Orange and Bloomfield Y M C A ball teams play on Saturday afternoon on the Watessing grounds.

Deposits aggregating $57,000 were made in the Bloomfield National Bank on Monday, the opening business day.

District Deputy Grand Chancellor Wm. Baldwin installed the newly-elected officers of Europa Lodge, Knights of Pythias, Tuesday night.

The Improved Sewerage and Sewage Utilization Company of New York, has made a proposition to construct a sewerage system for Montclair.

A change has been made in the Postal service. The last mail for New York now closes at 7:40 P. M. This is a beneficial improvement.

The monthly business meeting of the Bloomfield Building and Loan Association will be held on Monday night, over the Post Office.

The Electric Lighting Committee of the Improvement Association met at the residence of Mr. Chas. Nash during the week.

Rev. Dr. L. Lowry, a former pastor of the Park M. E. Church, has been honored with the degree of D. D. by Grant Memorial University of Tennessee.

The newly-elected officers of Olive Branch Lodge I O O F were installed on Monday night by D. N. G. J. H. Lockwood.

Glenwood Park was well patronized on July 4th. Nearly 1,000 people will witness the pyrotechnic display in the evening.

Territorial Governor Tilden, of the State of New Jersey, was the guest of Kearney Council, National Profraternity Union, Monday evening.

Rev. Chas. A. Cook, of the First Baptist Church, is spending his vacation at his old home in Canada. Rev. Mr. Candee will occupy his pulpit to-morrow.

Our citizens will perhaps do well to give attention to the admonitions of our old dealers and buy early in the season. The dealers are unanimous in their assertions about an upward tendency in the price.

It is stated that the Essex Passenger Railway Co. are taking measures to secure the right of extending their road from the terminus in Bloomfield through Montclair to Caldwell, the cars to run by electricity.

The rain on the afternoon of the Fourth seriously interfered with the arrangements for spending the morning. The threatening weather in the morning kept many people at home. The crowds on the streets in the evening were unusually large.

The Street Lighting Committee of both the Bloomfield and Montclair Town Committees held a conference on Friday night to talk over the matter of lighting the township streets with electric lights. No definite conclusions were arrived at.

Mr. Wm. C. Carl gave his annual Matinee Musical, with pupils, Saturday afternoon, June 29th, assisted by Miss Lucy Nelson, soprano, and Mr. Wm. J. Mader, violinist. The program contained some very interesting numbers and was a decided success.

At the meeting of the Montclair Town Committee on Monday night a motion was made that $500 be appropriated to employ an engineer to prepare plans for a sewerage system. A vote on the matter was postponed until the next meeting.

The case of ex-postmaster A. M. L. Brown was brought up for hearing before United States Commissioner Jones last Friday. It begins to appear as if Mr. Brown will be able to extricate himself from his difficulties without suffering any serious personal inconvenience. The matter is one of accounts and will take considerable time to straighten out.

Two runaways occurred on Upper Broad street on the 4th. In both instances wheels were wrenched from the vehicles by attempting to turn out of the tracks of the Orange & Bloomfield Street Railway. No serious injuries were sustained by any of the occupants of either vehicles.

Just as good as a professional game! was the exclamation of many. The well pleased spectators who witnessed the ball game between the Bloomfield and Hoboken Y M C A baseball clubs on Thursday morning. The game was intensely interesting from beginning to end. Score 4 to 2 in favor of Bloomfield.

List of letters remaining unclaimed in the Post Office at Glen Ridge, July 1st, 1889: Bullet, Mrs.; Booth, Mr. E. H.; Copley, Miss Rose; Davis, Miss Ellen; Fuller, Mrs. M. J.; Little, Mrs. Wm. A.; Mollie, Mrs. J. L.; Little, Miss Annie; Williams, Mr. George W. Any person calling for the above will please ask for "Advertised" letters.

Contractor John O'Rourke, of Orange, has been awarded the contract for macadamizing Beach street. The property owners along that street will doubtless feel very much pleased over this, as Mr. O'Rourke enjoys the confidence of the community and his work always gives satisfaction. The same contractor has been awarded the contract for broken stone for repair of roads.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Wm. E. Sheppard took place in the Park M. E. Church last Saturday afternoon. Rev. R. B. Collins was assisted by Rev. H. W. Ballantine and Rev. C. singing was by the church choir. The attendance was large. The ranks of the members of Wm. S. Pearson Post, G. A. R., were augmented by visiting comrades from John M. Wheeler Post, of Montclair, and the Rev. of Caldwell. Funeral services were held at the residence of the deceased, Mr. O'Rourke, on Sunday morning. The drum corps furnished music for the procession. The rites at the grave were impressive. The burial was in the John Hall family plot.

There has been handed to us a copy of the "History of the Johnstown Flood," by Willis Fletcher Johnson of the New York Tribune. Many persons in Bloomfield will be glad to secure copies of this work. It is an authentic, graphic and complete record of the flood, with statements of eye-witnesses, marvelous rescues and hair-breadth escapes. The book is handsomely bound in cloth and gold, 460 pages, profusely illustrated with engravings from photographs taken on the spot. It is sold by subscription and orders can be given to Mr. John Kamm at the Seminary, or the book will be sent by mail on receipt of price ($1.50) by the publisher, M. W. Jones, 6 Clinton Place, New York.

The closing exercises of the Parochial school of the Church of the Sacred Heart were held in Catholic Union Hall on Tuesday evening. In addition to the closing ceremonies of the school the exercises partook of the form of a welcome home to the lately returned pastor, Rev. J. M. Nardiello. The program was a varied one, interesting and entertaining. The musical decorations were beautiful. The pastor received many handsome bouquets and baskets of flowers besides a purse containing a good sum of money. The hall was completely filled with spectators. The exercises were prolonged to a late hour. It was expected that Father Nardiello would entertain the audience with a brief account of his travels but other events monopolized the time and this feature was deferred to another occasion.

Watessing.

The Free Public Library Trustees meet next Wednesday evening.

T. Cooper sailed for England on Wednesday, to be absent several weeks.

F. C. Aucutt is deserving of thanks for the putting up of signboards at the corner of Myrtle avenue.

It is rumored that only one-half of the length of Myrtle avenue will be macadamized this year.

Charles H. Crow of New York, will address a Prohibition meeting in Prospect Hall on Monday night.

The social guild of the Watessing M. E. Church met at the residence of Mr. James Edgerly Elliot, Wednesday night.

Lessons from the life of the late Mrs. Lucy B. Hayes will be the subject of Rev. E. L. Clement's address next Sunday evening at the Watessing M. E. Church.

The ladies of Watessing received a letter of thanks last week from the Adjutant General's Department of Pennsylvania, for their generous contributions in aid of the Johnstown sufferers.

Residents of Grace street requested the Essex Orange Water Company to lay a water main in that street. The company informed them that they would do so providing the erection of a hydrant in the street.

The ladies constituting the Building Fund Committee of the Watessing M. E. Church, met at the residence of Mrs. Francis Law on Monday night, and decided to hold a fair. The business Monday night was mainly devoted to arranging committees to have charge of the various departments. A great effort will be put forth to make the project the most successful ever held in the vicinity. Already an active interest has been awakened and contributions of fancy and useful articles are being offered. Full particulars will be cheerfully furnished by the following Board of managers: Mr. John Greenbank, Mrs. Francis Law, Mrs. M. W. Tichenor, Mrs. R. W. Butterworth, Mrs. D. A. Ferguson and Mrs. Chas. Ferguson.

Address.

By Mr. J. M. Bancroft, on behalf of Wm. S. Pearson Post, G. A. R., on presentation of a flag to the Bloomfield High School, June 28, 1889:

Following the beautiful custom that has come into vogue within the past few years, it has been deemed appropriate that the Grand Army of the Republic, composed of surviving soldiers and sailors of the late war of the rebellion, should present to the Bloomfield High School, representing the rising generation, an American flag, as a silent but impressive preacher of patriotism to them and to the successive generations to be educated here. What more costly and valuable emblem could we give? For many days, yes, months, and years, with each regiment, our flag, the stars and stripes, was a rallying point about which we made our home, our camp, on which we based our movements in daily drill and duty, and by which was guided our position and changes amid the smoke and haze of the battle-field. It thus became a part of our lives; it represented far more to us at the close of those years and since, than we have any part of early manhood when we left friends and homes for three years we less sooner discharged. Who can calculate what this emblem has cost in money and in blood, the best heart blood of the nation?

You are familiar with the history of our republic, you know the causes and results of the revolutionary struggle, the difficulties under which a united government was established at the close of the war; you have a part of an act of slavery under the protection of a government whose foundation principle was that all men were free. As one result of the late war that anomaly has been done away forever and now our flag stands for liberty, free government, religious toleration, and equal rights for all before the law.

Who were these men, the veterans of to-day, the boys of '61? The war records of the State of Michigan show that the average age of all the soldiers from that State, who served in the war of the rebellion, was but 22 years. Who were the boys of '61? They were the school boys of 1851 to 1861. The friends we knew, those whom we visited from camp to camp, of whom we obtained passing slips, as they marched past as we sat by the roadside, perhaps as we waited our turn to follow into the din and rattle of manly war, were our school mates and the fair correspondents who bore us in mind and sent cheerful messages from home, who were constantly doing what they could in their sphere to forward the cause in which we were actors, were our school mates of but a few years before.

We are reminded that we are veterans, from age exempt from military duty. Our spirits might be willing, but the flesh would prove weak—we are passing away and in case the dear old flag should again need to be found in the coming generation, the boys of to-day. We have no doubt you would come to its support as cheerfully, as faithfully and as efficiently as those who have gone before.

What more appropriate than that the free schools, an institution thoroughly American, should fly the American flag at all public occasions? May this flag aid to perpetuate the spirit of freedom, of truth, honor, and trust among men, may it inspire true love of our country, may it ever teach personal manhood and nobility of character, may it aid in the triumph of national righteousness and constitutional freedom.

Glenwood Park.

Glenwood Park has been well patronized this week in spite of the weather. On Sunday over six hundred persons paid five cents for the privilege of enjoying the cool and pleasant seats on the pavilion and under the shade of the trees. No programme of any kind is carried out on Sunday, and no amusement is provided, the park being open only to permit people to enjoy its shade and its natural beauties.

"The Oolah."

Francis Wilson and his company are proving their strength and that of their opera when they are able in these July days to attract such large audiences as nightly gather at the beautiful Broadway Theatre, New York. "The Oolah," with its incessant battery of fun, its magnificent costumes and scenery, its remarkable array of pretty girls, and finally its one only Wilson, has become one of the important features of a visit to New York at this time of the year. Francis Wilson's contract with the Broadway Theatre provided for a two weeks' rest for his company in July, but the business men estimated so large that he and Managers Sanger and Canby have decided that "The Oolah" shall continue right through the month of October without any interruption.

The New Discovery.

You have heard your friends and neighbors talking about it. You may yourself be one of the many who know from personal experience just how good a thing it is. If you have ever tried it, you are one of its staunch friends, because the wonderful thing about it is, that when once given a trial, Dr. King's New Discovery ever after holds a place in the house. If you have never used it and would be affected with a cold, or any throat, lung or chest trouble, secure a bottle at once and give it a fair trial. It is guaranteed every time, or money refunded. Trial bottles free at Geo. S. Woods' Drugstore.
